About the company:

Alenia's story is about friendship and the dream of building something different. At the beginning, there were 3 friends who had known each other for over ten years. After a successful career within large corporations, they were ready to evolve. They felt a need for freedom, a desire to serve their clients, and to offer clients and consultants a more agile and creative way of working based on collective intelligence.

Through Alenia, they wanted to offer consultants great career paths, but also a friendly environment where people take pleasure in doing their work. Joining Alenia means providing excellent customer service, while having fun and exploring new ways of doing things.

At Alenia, we support our clients in the modernization of their information systems through the integration of DevOps, software craftsmanship and new Agile organizations that allow the creation of flexible high-quality products. We help them focus their energy on added value and create a positive and creative dynamic for the future. We guide them to success.
